Excerpt from a suspense novel

Shia looked up from his monitor, rubbed his eyes, and stared down the dark hallway toward the CFO's office. He was certain a sound had come from behind the closed door. It was a heavy thump, like someone had dropped a bowling ball.

There shouldn't be anyone else here at this hour, Shia thought to himself as he looked at his watch. The only illumination came from Shia's computer monitor. His office was on the thirtieth floor, far too high to get much more than a faint glow from the street lights below. S before reaching down to turn off the computer scree the darkness. He considered turning on his phone's f thoughts were cut short by a loud crash followed by tinkling of shattered glass.

Shia froze, as if he were caught by the gaze of Medusa. The initial doubt that he would actually find someone snooping around the CFO's office

In 1932, the Australian government lost a war against the native emu population. The operation that has since become known as the Great Emu War began as an initiative to combat overpopulation of the crop-destroying birds invading farmland around Chandler and Walgoolan. The initial assault on the flightless avians began on November 2 and lasted six days before the military personnel withdrew. Efforts resumed on November 12, but by early December, the feathered foes had adopted guerrilla tactics against the targeted wheat fields, rendering military involvement largely ineffective. The Australian government declined further involvement with the ongoing conflict in 1934, 1943, and 1948, despite the repeated pleas for assistance by the farmers in the area.

Stimulus: 1 of 2

Based on the passage, which of the following statements accurately predicts the consequences of the failed initial assault on the emus?

- The emus would likely continue to increase in population and damage more farmland.
- ernment would increase financial support for the farmers ensate for the crop damage.
- uld be recognized as protected species immediately g the war.
- Military equipment would be advanced in anticipation of another

Cats vs. Dogs

There are many different choices when looking for a pet. Despite all the different possibilities, people will often choose either a cat or a dog. There really isn't any question, though. Except in one particular circumstance, one should always choose the cat.

First, cats are cleaner than dogs. Cats are constantly cleaning themselves. I am pretty sure the only time they lick anything is to clean it. If a cat starts licking you, it's because you are dirty and it wishes you were clean. Dogs lick everything, including your face and mouth. When a dog licks your mouth, it is like you have kissed anything the dog licked, in[illegible] the bottom of your shoes and probably the toilet.

Second, cats are way more considerate than dogs. Dogs will dro[illegible] your freshly laundered linens all the time just because they wan[illegible] cats try to make your clothes and furniture warmer by adding th[illegible] Cats use a litter box in order to contain their waste to a particula[illegible] while dogs will use your shoes or favorite rug so that you know they

More and more people are downloading social media to their devices every day. As of 2019, 40% of the world's population had at least one social media account, 2 million more people than in 2013. Supporters of social media contend that it facilitates relationships and makes connecting effortless. However, opponents argue that it can be dangerous. According to the study "Associations between social media and cyberbullying" published in the journal mHealth, people who use social media have an increased chance of being bullied online. These sites also put citizens' personal information at risk. In fact, some might claim that social media is destroying society.

Stimulus: 2 of 2

Which of the following statements offers relevant evidence to support the author's point of view that social media is harmful?

- "More and more people download social media applications to their devices every day."
- "People who use social media have an increased chance of being bullied online."

On February 2 of each year, the United States observes the unusual holiday of Groundhog Day, a day of hope that winter is over and spring is beginning. This tradition has been officially observed in the U.S. since the 1800s, and is believed to have developed from European folk traditions in which a bear, fox, badger, or even hedgehog would serve as the symbolic meteorologist. Although other cultures and towns observe Groundhog Day (or something similar), the town of Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania takes special pride in being home to the one true forecasting groundhog, Punxsutawney Phil. At the turn of the twentieth century, townspeople formed the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club to perpetuate the joyful rituals and events surrounding Groundhog Day. Over the years, these events have come to include a scavenger hunt, a talent show, and a ball.

Legend has it that on Groundhog Day the official weather forecasting groundhog awakens from hibernation and comes out of his burrow to look for his shadow. If he sees his shadow, six more weeks of winter are to come, and Punxsutawney Phil goes back to bed. However, if he does not see his shadow, Punxsutawney Phil takes t
